

Scottish

Archaeological

Glasgow 1970

2

SCOTTISH ARCHAEOLOGICAL FORUM

1970

Committee:

- | | |
|---------------------|--|
| Audrey S. Henshall | (National Museum of Antiquities
of Scotland) |
| Euan W. MacKie | (Hunterian Museum, Glasgow) |
| Lionel Masters | (Staff Tutor in Archaeology,
University of Glasgow) |
| Mary-Jane Mountain | - Editor
(University of Edinburgh) |
| J.N. Graham Ritchie | (The Royal Commission on the Ancient and Historical Monuments
of Scotland) |

© 1970

A.S. Henshall
M-J. Mountain
J.N.G. Ritchie

Printed by T. & A. Constable Ltd., Edinburgh

CONTENTS

Introduction

Long Barrows of Northern England; Structural and Dating Evidence
T.G. Manby, page 1

The Long Cairns of Eastern Scotland
Audrey S. Henshall, page 29

Palisaded Sites in North Britain: Their Context and Affinities
Anna Ritchie, page 48

The Hownam Culture: A Rejoinder to Ritchie
Euan W. MacKie, page 68

Early Settlement and Topography in the Border Counties
George Jobey, page 73

Early Rectilinear Enclosures in the Lothians
Gordon Maxwell, page 86

Problems of the Roman Northern Frontier
Charles Daniels, page 91

INTRODUCTION

The second meeting of the Scottish Archaeological Forum was held in Glasgow University on March 7th 1970. This publication contains the papers that were presented at that meeting as well as two other papers arising from the meeting. There was considerable discussion during the day but it was not possible to publish it in this Forum. It is hoped that in the future we will publish not only the annual meeting but also a number of more specialised small seminars. The next annual meeting of the Forum is planned for March 1971 when, following a suggestion from Dr. Horace Fairhurst and Mr. David Taylor, various aspects of the Iron Age in Scotland will be discussed.

Mary-Jane Mountain
University of Edinburgh
July 1970